4. Risks

4.1 General Risks of the Fund

The risks set out in this section are in relation to the Fund and the Underlying Funds. Given the structure of the Fund, it is acknowledged that the risks inherent in the Underlying Funds will also impact the Fund. As such, Investors should consider and satisfy themselves as to the risks of investing in the Fund. Investment in the Fund is intended to produce returns over the long-term. It may not be possible to obtain short-term gains from such investment.

Investors should be aware that the price of units in the Fund, and the income from them, may fall or rise and investors may not get back their original investment. Past performance of the Fund is not a guide or indicator to the future performance of the Fund. Generally, some of the risk factors that should be considered are liquidity and repatriation risks. The default in payment by an issuer of any instrument held by the respective Underlying Fund may affect the Underlying Fund's ability to meet its payment obligations to the Fund. No guarantee is given, express or implied, that investors will receive back any amount invested.

Investors should be fully aware of the investment objective(s) of the Fund as it may state that the Fund may invest on a limited basis in areas which are not naturally associated with the name of the Fund. These other markets and/or assets may act with more or less volatility than the core investments and performance will, in part, be dependent on these investments. All investments involve risks and there can be no guarantee against loss resulting from an investment in any units, nor can there be any assurance that the Fund's investment objective will be attained in respect of its overall performance. Investors should therefore ensure (prior to any investment being made) that they are satisfied with the risk profile of the overall objective disclosed.

4.2 General Risks of Underlying Funds

Investments into the Underlying Funds will be subject to different degrees of economic, political, foreign exchange, interest rate, liquidity, repatriation, default and regulatory risks depending on the relevant Underlying Fund invested into.

Investors should be aware that the price of units and the income from them may go down as well as up. The performance of the Underlying Funds may be affected by changes in the market value of securities comprised in the portfolio which are subject to changes in interest rates, economic and political conditions and the earnings growth of corporations whose securities are comprised in the portfolio and is also subject to liquidity and repatriation risks.

While the Investment Managers believe that the Underlying Funds offer potential for capital appreciation, no assurance can be given that this objective will be achieved. Past performance of an Underlying Fund is not necessarily a guide to the future performance of the Underlying Fund. You may not get back your original investment and you may lose some or all of your investment.

Investments in the Underlying Funds are meant to produce returns over the long-term and are not suitable for short-term speculation. Investors should not expect to obtain short-term gains from such investment.

4.3 Specific Risk

4.3.1 Market Risk

An Underlying Fund is exposed to the market risk in the region in which it invests. The value of investments by an Underlying Fund may go up and down due to changing economic, political or market conditions, or due to an issuer's individual situation.

In addition, there are risks involved when investing in Asian markets, of a nature not generally encountered when investing in securities traded on major international markets. For example:

- (a) government approval may be required to remove capital or profits from the country (or there may be other restrictions causing illiquidity) which may cause delays in or restrictions on removing monies and may impact on the amount of cash available to meet realisations for units of the Underlying Funds or the ability of the Investment Managers to manage its exposure to that market;

- (b) managing currency risks in the developing market may be more difficult due to the illiquidity of the local currency market or certain regulatory restrictions;
- (c) the developing market may experience periodic social and political unrest which can disrupt financial markets;
- (d) where the developing market relies on foreign capital inflows to fund development, withdrawal of foreign capital during periods of uncertainty can cause financial market weakness; and
- (e) reporting standards applicable in the developing market may be less demanding, which may result in less complete information available when making investments.

4.3.2 Equity Risk

An Underlying Fund may invest in stocks and other equity securities and their derivatives which are subject to market risks that historically have resulted in greater price volatility than that experienced by bonds and other fixed income securities. Certain Underlying Funds may also invest in convertible instruments which may be converted into equity. A convertible instrument tends to yield a fairly stable return before conversion but its price usually has a greater volatility than that of the underlying equity.

4.3.3 Currency Risk

The assets and liabilities of an Underlying Fund may be denominated in currencies other than the Underlying Fund's base currency (i.e. Singapore dollar). If the currency in which a security is denominated appreciates against the Singapore dollar, the value of the security would increase. Conversely, a decline in the exchange rate of the currency would adversely affect the value of the security. The managers may at their discretion manage the currency risks for underlying fund by hedging through forward currency contracts, currency futures, currency swap agreements or currency options. Any hedging done for underlying fund would result in additional hedging cost being borne by the underlying fund. You should note that there is no assurance that the currency risk will be fully hedged.

4.3.4 Interest rate Risk

Investments in bonds, debentures, loan stocks, convertibles and other debt securities may decline in value if interest rates change. In general, the price of debt securities rises when interest rates fall, and falls when interest rates rise. Interest rate risk is generally greater for investments with long durations or maturities.

4.3.5 Risks relating to Hedging

There is no guarantee that the desired hedging instruments will be available or hedging techniques will be effective. The underlying fund may suffer significant losses in adverse situations.

4.3.6 Credit Risk

An Underlying Fund is subject to the risk that some issuers of debt securities and other investments made by the Underlying Fund may not make payments on such obligations. Further, an issuer may suffer adverse changes in its financial condition that could lower the credit quality of a security, leading to greater volatility in the price of the security and in the value of the Underlying Fund. A change in the quality rating of a security can also affect the security's liquidity and make it more difficult to sell.

4.3.7 Foreign Securities Risk

An Underlying Fund that invests in securities throughout the world is subject to numerous risks resulting from market and currency fluctuations, future adverse political and economic developments, the possible imposition of restrictions on the repatriation of currency or other governmental laws or restrictions, reduced availability of public information concerning issuers and the lack of uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards or of other regulatory practices and requirements comparable to those applicable to companies in the investor's domicile. In addition, securities of companies or governments of some countries may be illiquid and their prices volatile and, with respect to certain countries, the possibility exists of expropriation, nationalisation, exchange control restrictions, confiscatory taxation and limitations on the use or removal of funds or other assets, including withholding of dividends. Some of the securities in an Underlying Fund may be subject to government taxes that could reduce the yield on such securities, and fluctuation in foreign currency exchange rates may affect the value of securities and the appreciation or depreciation of investments. Certain types of investments may result in currency conversion expenses and higher custodial expenses.

4.3.8 Industry risk

The value of the units in an Underlying Fund will be susceptible to factors affecting the respective industries that they cover and may be subject to greater risks and market volatility than an investment in a broader range of securities covering various economic sectors.

4.3.9 Emerging Markets and Frontier Risk

An Underlying Fund that invests in emerging and less developed market securities such as Asian bonds and equities may be subject to significant risks not typically associated with investing in securities listed on the major securities markets in developed countries, including but not limited to (a) restrictions on foreign investment and on repatriation of capital invested in emerging markets, (b) currency fluctuations, (c) the cost of converting foreign currency into Singapore dollars, (d) potential price volatility and reduced liquidity of securities traded in emerging markets, (e) political, political uncertainty, economic, market, settlement, legal, regulatory, social, instability, operational, execution and counterparty risks, including the risk of nationalisation or expropriation of assets and more substantial government involvement in the economy, (f) risk arising from inadequate settlement and custody systems in certain countries and (g) risk arising from less defined tax laws and procedures. As a result, prices of securities traded in the securities markets of emerging or developing countries tend to be volatile.

4.3.10 Derivatives Risk

The Trust may invest in financial derivatives for the purposes of hedging and/or efficient portfolio management. Where such financial derivatives are financial derivatives on commodities, such transactions shall be settled in cash at all times. The use of futures, options, warrants, forwards, swaps or swap options involves increased risks. An Underlying Fund's ability to use such instruments successfully depends on the Investment Managers' ability to accurately predict movements in stock prices, interest rates, currency exchange rates or other economic factors and the availability of liquid markets. If the Investment Managers' predictions are wrong, or if the derivatives do not work as anticipated, the Underlying Fund could suffer greater losses than if the Underlying Fund had not used the derivatives. If the Underlying Fund invests in over-the-counter derivatives, there is an increased risk that a counterparty may fail to honor its contract. Derivatives transactions will not be used for speculation or leverage. In the event that such instruments are used, the Investment Managers will ensure that the risk management and compliance procedures and controls adopted are adequate and have been or will be implemented and that they have the requisite expertise, experience and quantitative tools to manage and contain such investment risks. Investments in derivatives would normally be monitored and controlled by the Investment Managers with regular mark-to-market valuations, careful research prior to investment and compliance monitoring to ensure careful compliance with the investment restrictions set out in the Underlying Funds' Deed with regard to derivatives.

4.3.11 Limited Sector/Country Risk

Underlying Funds which are exposed to limited sectors or countries will be subjected to the respective market movements of the limited number of sectors and/or countries of the relevant investment universe of such Underlying Fund. The relevant Underlying Fund may not hedge its market risk in a down cycle and will move in line with the market movements. However, the relevant Underlying Fund will benefit when markets go up.

4.3.12 Investment Grade, Below Investment Grade and Unrated Debt Securities Risk

There is a risk that investment grade securities that certain Underlying Funds may invest in may be downgraded due to adverse market conditions. In the event of a down-grading of the credit rating of a security or an issuer relating to a security that certain Underlying Funds may invest in, the value of the relevant Underlying Fund may be adversely affected. Certain Underlying Funds may invest in debt securities below investment grade which are generally accompanied by a higher degree of counterparty risk, credit risk and liquidity risk than higher rated, lower yielding securities. Investment in unrated debt securities may be subject to risks similar to those associated with below investment grade debt securities.

4.3.13 Risks of investing in Structured Products

In respect of Underlying Funds which are invested in structured products, investors may lose part or all of the value of the investment when such Underlying Funds are investing in structured products (such as ADR/GDRs, fully funded participation notes and warrants) due to the default risk of the issuer of the structured products as well as the inflationary, political and exchange rate risks of the underlying assets. Should the counterparty default, the value of the structured products may be nil. However, those instruments provide access to some markets without having to invest locally.

4.3.14 Default Risk of Issuing Financial Institutions

Certain Underlying Funds may lose the value of the participations notes or warrants in the case of default of the issuing financial institution but these instruments provide access to some markets without having to invest locally.

4.3.15 Risks associated with investing through the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect and Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect

The Underlying Fund may invest in China A-Shares of mainland China through the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect and/or the Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect. In addition to the risk factors headed "Market Risk" and "Currency Risk" in paragraphs (i) and (iii) above, it is also subject to the additional risks in this Fund Information Booklet.

4.3.16 RMB Currency Risks

In respect of the Trust's investment in China A-Shares of mainland China through the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect and/or the Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect, you should note that RMB is currently not freely convertible and RMB convertibility from offshore RMB (CNH) to onshore RMB (CNY) is a managed currency process subject to foreign exchange control policies of and restrictions imposed by the Chinese government. The value of CNH could differ, perhaps significantly, from that of CNY due to a number of factors including without limitation those foreign exchange control policies and repatriation restrictions. While RMB (CNH) and RMB (CNY) represent the same currency, they are traded in different and separate markets which operate independently. As such, RMB (CNH) does not necessarily have the same exchange rate and may not move in the same direction as RMB (CNY).

4.3.17 Financial Derivative Instruments ("FDIs")

(a) Types of FDIs

The FDIs which may be used by the Underlying Funds include, but are not limited to, options on securities, stock index options, forward currency contracts, currency futures, currency swap agreements, currency options, interest rate futures or options or interest rate swaps, financial or index futures, over-the-counter ("OTC") options, credit default swaps, equity swaps or futures or options on any kind of financial instrument.

The Underlying Funds may also enter into volatility futures and options transactions traded on a regulated market. These instruments measure market expectations of near term implied volatility conveyed by stock index prices and are used to hedge volatility within funds. Any such index has to meet the following requirements:

- the composition of the index is sufficiently diversified,
- the index represents an adequate benchmark for the market to which it refers,
- it is published in an appropriate manner.

(b) Exposure to FDIs

The global exposure of an Underlying Fund to FDIs or embedded FDIs will not exceed 100% of the net asset value ("NAV") of the Underlying Fund at all times. Such exposure will be calculated using the commitment approach as described in, and in accordance with the provisions of, the Code of Collective Investment Scheme.

The global exposure of an Underlying Fund to FDIs will not exceed the total net assets of such Underlying Fund. The Underlying Fund's overall risk exposure shall consequently not exceed 200% of its total net assets. In addition, this overall risk exposure may not be increased by more than 10% by means of temporary borrowings so that it may not exceed 210% of any Underlying Fund's total net assets under any circumstances.

The global exposure relating to derivative instruments is calculated taking into account the current value of the underlying assets, the counterparty risk, foreseeable market movements and the time available to liquidate the positions.

(c) Use of FDIs

As at the date of registration of the Underlying Fund Prospectus, the Underlying Funds may invest in FDIs for the purposes of hedging and/or efficient portfolio management. Where such financial derivatives are financial derivatives on commodities, such transactions shall be settled in cash at all times. The Underlying Funds may invest in FDIs for purposes other than hedging and/or efficient portfolio management in accordance with the Schroder ISF's Luxembourg prospectus and the limits and conditions on the use of FDIs under applicable laws in Luxembourg.

(d) Risks on use of FDIs

The use of FDIs involves increased risks. The ability to use such instruments successfully depends on the relevant Investment Manager's ability to accurately predict movements in stock prices, interest rates, currency exchange rates or other economic factors and the availability of liquid markets. If the relevant Investment Manager's predictions are wrong, or if the derivatives do not work as anticipated, the relevant Underlying Fund could suffer greater losses than if that Underlying Fund had not used the derivatives. If an Underlying Fund invests in OTC derivatives, there is increased risk that a counterparty may fail to honour its contract. In the event the relevant Investment Manager uses such instruments, they are of the view that they have the necessary expertise to control and manage the use of derivatives. Investments in derivatives would normally be monitored and controlled by the relevant Investment Manager with regular mark-to-market valuations, careful research prior to investment and compliance monitoring to ensure careful compliance with the investment restrictions and limits set out in the Schroder ISF's Luxembourg prospectus with regard to derivatives.

Important: The above should not be considered to be an exhaustive list of the risks which potential investors should consider before investing into the particular Fund(s). Investors should be aware that an investment in the particular Fund(s) may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time.

For details on the risks applicable to the various Underlying Funds, you should refer to their prospectuses which can be obtained from their respective issuing companies.

5. Structure

The PRULink Asian Income and Growth Fund feeds 50% of the assets into the Schroder Asian Growth Fund SGD Class and 50% into the Schroder Asian Investment Grade Credit Class A. The allocation will be rebalanced periodically. It has a risk classification of medium to high risk. It is best suited to investors with a medium to long-term investment horizon. The Fund was launched on 6 August 2013.

There are no material differences between the two Classes except that the Accumulation Class will not declare any dividends while in respect of the Distribution Class, the Manager may at its sole absolute discretion declare and pay out dividends on a semi-annual basis. Please refer to Section 8 "Distribution Policy" for more details. The offer and bid prices for the two Classes may differ as a result of the dividends declared and paid out by the Distribution Class.

The Accumulation Class is included under the CPF Investment Scheme-OA and SA.

The CPF Investment Scheme Risk Classification is Narrowly Focused – Regional – Asia.

The benchmark for the Fund is 50% of MSCI All Country Asia ex Japan Index (Net Dividend Reinvested) and 50% of (CPF OA rate + 1% p.a.).

6. Investment Objective

The investment objective of the PRULink Asian Income and Growth Fund is to provide income and capital growth by investing in equities of companies in Asia and investment grade fixed income securities across Asia debt markets.

7. Investment Process of the Fund and Underlying Funds

The Fund has a strategic asset allocation mix of 50% in Schroder Asian Growth Fund SGD Class and 50% in Schroder Asian Investment Grade Credit Class A. The allocation will be rebalanced periodically.

As the Fund feeds into the Underlying Funds, the Fund shares the same investment process as the respective Underlying Funds.

7.1 Schroder Asian Growth Fund SGD Class

The Investment Manager's approach is to capitalise on Schroders' strong in-house research capability and exploit market inefficiencies.

Over the longer term, the Investment Manager believes that share prices should reflect the ability of companies to create value for shareholders. As such, the distinctive focus of their research is to identify companies that have robust business models, good corporate governance and strong management teams to drive shareholder returns. These are companies that exhibit the following:

- Ability to generate sustainable returns on capital greater than cost of capital.
- Ability to grow and reinvest cash productively.
- Willingness to return free cash flow to minority investors.

At the industry level, the Investment Manager seeks to predict potential industry developments, focusing on competition, supplier power, barriers to entry, buyer power and threat of substitution amongst other things. As part of their analysis, they form a picture of how different companies may find their place within the longer-term structure of each industry. In this regard, Schroders' global resources are a critical asset in a world where markets are becoming increasingly globalised.

At the company level, the Investment Manager seeks to discern whether a firm has the tangible and intangible resources to support its positioning within its industry. A company's stated strategy and its management's execution track record are key inputs in the analysis. They also emphasise profitability by focusing on a company's ability to generate revenue growth and defend profit margins. A company's ability to generate sustainable free cash flows either to fund business growth or to return to shareholders is also paramount.

7.2 Schroder Asian Investment Grade Credit Class A

The Investment Manager's investment process will aim to take advantage of the broad opportunities in Asian (ex-Japan) fixed income markets using the depth of Schroders' investment and research capabilities, both in the region and globally, to seek out these opportunities. The Investment Manager will aim to maximise value in portfolios whilst controlling risk. Their approach will be driven primarily by fundamental analysis of market valuations in the context of economic trends, which involves both top-down and bottom-up strategies with a focus on the changing macroeconomic environment. The Investment Manager will aim to take advantage of market inefficiency and mis-pricing over the medium to long term. As a result, the Investment Manager will actively manage the sector and country allocation, and explore relative value opportunities in security selection.

8. Distribution Policy

- (a) The Manager targets to make semi-annual distributions. The distribution shall be expressed as a percentage of the value of units at the prevailing bid price as at the relevant declaration date. The Manager intends to make a distribution on or around the first Business Day in March and September of every calendar year ("Declaration Date") or such other dates as the Manager may in its absolute discretion determine.

Investors who have invested in the Fund before the Declaration Date, will be entitled to distributions as long as they remain invested and have units credited and held in their accounts on the Declaration Date. Distributions shall be based on the value of units held by the investors as at the relevant Declaration Date as evidenced in our records. If an investor has made an application for any transactions (including surrender, withdrawal or switching), which is yet to be processed, the value of units meant to be processed will not be included in determining the distribution amount.

- (c) For investment with cash (“Cash”) or SRS, i.e., not using Central Provident Fund (“CPF”), investors may choose at the time of application for investment in the Fund to either receive all (but not part) of the distributions as payouts or to have all (but not part) of the distributions reinvested in the Fund to receive extra units.
- (d) If investors wish to change the instructions for receiving distributions they must write in to inform us at least 30 days before the Declaration Date. Please note that any such election will automatically supersede all prior instructions relating to receiving distributions and shall apply to all of the units then held by them.
- (e) If investors chose to receive the distributions as payouts, distributions will be credited to their designated bank account or SRS account (if investors have invested using their SRS monies) within 45 days from the relevant Declaration Date (“Payout Date”). The Manager and Prudential Singapore reserve the right to change the Payout Date.
- (f) If investor chose to reinvest the distributions, extra units which will be credited into their account within 45 days from the relevant Declaration Date at bid price (“Reinvestment Date”). The Manager and Prudential Singapore reserve the right to change the Reinvestment Date.
- (g) If investors have chosen to receive the distributions as payouts, for any transaction (including surrender, withdrawal and switching) performed by them between the Declaration Date and Payout Date, the redemption proceeds will be calculated at the prevailing bid price (Refer to section 14). Distributions due to the investors will be credited separately to their designated bank account or SRS account (if investors have invested using their SRS monies) on the Payout Date.
- (h) If investors have chosen to reinvest the distributions, for any of these transactions (including surrender, withdrawal and switching) performed by them between the Declaration Date and Reinvestment Date, the redemption proceeds will be calculated at the prevailing bid price (Refer to Section 14). Distributions due to them will be credited back into their account except for surrenders. For surrenders, distributions will be paid to investors by cheque.
- (i) If investors have switched into another PRULink Fund between the Declaration Date and Reinvestment Date, they will receive the distributions which will be reinvested to the Fund.
- (j) Investors may cancel the policy within the review period (i.e. 14 days after receiving the policy document). If the policy is incepted before the Declaration Date, and should investors decide to cancel the policy after the Declaration Date but before the Payout Date or Reinvestment Date, they will receive a refund of premiums based on the premium refund formula as determined by us, less medical fees (if any). Any distributions due will be paid to investors on the Payout Date or Reinvestment Date (whichever is applicable).
- (k) If investor’s policy is incepted before the Declaration Date, and should they decide to cancel the policy after the Payout Date or Reinvestment Date, they will receive a refund of premiums based on the premium refund formula as determined by us, less medical fees (if any).
- (l) If death or total and permanent disability of the insured occurs before the Declaration Date, they will not be entitled to the distributions. If death or total and permanent disability of the insured occurs between the Declaration Date and Payout Date or Reinvestment Date, they will be entitled to the unit value in the Fund at the prevailing bid price. Distributions due to investors will be paid to their estate on the Payout Date or Reinvestment Date (whichever is applicable).

Please note the Distribution only applies to the Distribution Share Class of the Fund.

Distribution payments shall, at the sole discretion of the Manager and/or Prudential Singapore, be made out of either (a) income; or (b) net capital gains; or (c) capital of the Fund or a combination of (a) and/or (b) and/or (c).

Distributions are at the discretion of the Manager and/or Prudential Singapore and there is no guarantee, assurance and/or certainty that any distribution will be made and if distributions are made, such distributions are not in any way a forecast, indication or projection of the future or likely performance / distribution of the Fund. The making of any distribution shall not be taken to imply that further distributions will be made. The Manager and or Prudential Singapore may also vary the frequency and/ or amount for distributions made.

Investors should also note that distributions of the Fund may, in the event that income and net capital gains are insufficient, or due to fluctuations in exchange rates, be made out of the capital of the Fund. The exchange rates used will be determined solely at the discretion of the Manager and or Prudential Singapore. When distributions are declared and paid out (including out of capital) with respect to the Fund, the net assets of the Fund will reduce by an amount equivalent to the distributions declared. This will be reflected as a reduction in the unit price.

9. Performance of the Fund and Underlying Funds

9.1 Past Performance of the Fund and the Underlying Fund

Performance of the Fund (as at 31 December 2020)

If the premiums are intended to be paid with SRS monies, you should instruct the relevant SRS operator bank to withdraw from your SRS account monies in respect of the policy applied for.

Units will generally be credited to your account only when the funds are cleared, although we may at our discretion issue units before receiving full payment in cleared funds.

If we terminate a PRULink Fund, we will sell units in that PRULink Fund based on the bid price calculated after liquidating all Investments in that PRULink Fund. Upon completion, we will return you the value of units in your account.

19.7 Dilution and Dilution Adjustment of the Underlying Fund

The Underlying Fund is single priced and may suffer a reduction in value as a result of the transaction costs incurred in the purchase and sale of its underlying investments and the spread between the buying and selling prices of such investments caused by subscriptions, redemptions and/ or switching in and out of the Underlying Fund. This is known as "dilution". In order to counter this and to protect investors' interests, the Manager will apply "dilution adjustment" as part of its daily valuation policy. This means that in certain circumstances, the Manager (if in their opinion in good faith it is in the interest of investors to do so) will make adjustments in the calculations of the NAV per unit, to counter the impact of dealing and other costs on occasions when these are deemed to be significant, as described below.

In the usual course of business, the application of a dilution adjustment will be triggered mechanically and on a consistent basis.

The need to make a dilution adjustment will depend upon the net value of subscriptions, switching and redemptions received by the Underlying Fund for each Dealing Day. The Manager therefore reserve the right to make a dilution adjustment where the Underlying Fund experiences a net cash movement which exceeds a threshold set by the Manager from time to time of the previous Dealing Day's total NAV.

The Manager may also make a discretionary dilution adjustment if, in its opinion, it is in the interest of existing policyholders to do so.

Where a dilution adjustment is made, it will increase the NAV per unit when there are net inflows into the Underlying Fund and decrease the NAV per unit when there are net outflows. The NAV per unit of each Class will be calculated separately but any dilution adjustment will, in percentage terms, affect the NAV per Unit of each Class identically.

As dilution is related to the inflows and outflows of money from the Underlying Fund, it is not possible to accurately predict whether dilution will occur at any future point in time. Consequently, it is also not possible to accurately predict how frequently the Manager will need to make such dilution adjustments.

Because the dilution adjustment for the Underlying Fund will be calculated by reference to the costs of dealing in the underlying investments of the Underlying Fund, including any dealing spreads, which can vary with market conditions, this means that the amount of the dilution adjustment can vary over time but will not exceed 20% of the NAV per unit on the relevant Dealing Day. and the Manager reserves the right to adjust upwards or downwards the NAV per Unit on any Dealing Day in accordance with the foregoing without giving notice to relevant investors.

During circumstances which the Manager may deem as extraordinary market circumstances or significant unexpected changes in general market conditions (including but not limited to high market volatility, illiquidity in the markets, disruption of markets or slowdown of the economy caused by terrorist attack or war or other hostilities, a serious pandemic, or a natural disaster such as a hurricane or a super typhoon) in their absolute discretion, the Manager may temporarily increase the dilution adjustment beyond 2% of the NAV per Unit to such higher percentage as the Manager may determine from time to time in consultation with the Trustee, and such increase shall (if so required by the Authority and/or the Trustee) be notified to the investors in such manner as the Manager and Trustee may agree.
